SUMMARY

I build go-to-market systems. As Aiseberg's first US hire, I built the US enterprise GTM motion from zero, developing roughly $400K in qualified pipeline, running a program of 13 named design partners, and helping land the first signed enterprise deal with Splunk, a Cisco company. Before that, I analyzed subscription revenue at POLITICO and sold enterprise infrastructure. STEM MBA, Kogod School of Business, and active PMP certification.

EXPERIENCE

Product Marketing Manager & GTM | Aiseberg (Aisepedia) Sept 2025 - Oct 2026 | San Francisco, CA

- Developed roughly $400K in qualified pipeline across 134 tracked accounts by building the US enterprise GTM motion from zero as the first US hire, reporting directly to the founder.
- Helped land the first signed enterprise deal with Splunk, a Cisco company, converted from a design partner program of 13 publicly named product marketing leaders, 8 at Director level or above.
- Ran a six-week LinkedIn outbound campaign of roughly 1,000 targeted reach-outs, each offering a custom ICP snapshot or benchmark insight, then held 32 discovery sessions that shaped positioning and the roadmap.
- Drew 36 senior attendees to PMM 2.0, an invite-only San Francisco panel sourced from the design partner network, picking the venue, running production, and co-hosting as MC, splitting promotion with a colleague.
- Cut early onboarding abandonment 24% by tracing drop-off in PostHog to two leaking steps and designing a guided onboarding flow, then specified an 8-stage conversion funnel, 22 KPIs, and an 11-event Mixpanel plan.
- Automated 9 lifecycle emails across demo and onboarding tracks off Calendly and HubSpot webhooks in n8n, and built a Claude agent that drafted team outbound in the founder's tone, learned from sent mail.

- Finished Q1 2022 at about 105% of target and grew major storage clients about 18% in one quarter, building the configurations, quotes, and partner margins for channel-partner deals.
